

Honeywell

ACCELERATING THE TRANSITION TO GREEN ENERGY

Due to regulations and mandates, utilities need to be prepared to make a move to green energy. Honeywell has the answer with the first ever commercially available 100% hydrogen-ready diaphragm gas meter. It provides unparalleled accuracy while still using the utilities' existing infrastructure.

Meets regulations and mandates

Can accurately and efficiently measure hydrogen and other gases at the same time

Saves you time and money by using the existing infrastructure

Allows utilities to use more sustainable forms of energy